ELECTRONICS INSTITUTE NII 49
LENINGRAD, USSR

The Electronics Institute NII 49, located in central Leningrad, is engaged in the research and manufacture of radar and gyro equipment. This Institute occupies a former hospital on the north side of Gospitalnaya Ulitsa. 2/

Directly across Gospitalnaya Ulitsa and occupying the entire block is a factory which is reportedly associated with the Institute. 2/ However, such association cannot be confirmed by photography. Since previous photo cover in [REDACTED] three new multi-story buildings have been added to this factory. Six other major buildings in this block existed [REDACTED]

The small scale of the [REDACTED] precludes identification of antennas on roof tops.

The accompanying annotated photograph identifies and describes buildings comprising both the Institute and the factory.
